INVASION NEAR, BRITISH TELL FRANCE

LONDON, April 18 (AP)—"The time is getting short," the French people were warned today in the latest of a stream of pre-invasion broadcasts from the government-controlled London radio.

They were advised to store as much food as possible because "at least until the day of liberation comes, civilians must live on what is stored." Even after France is liberated the Allies will not be in a position to distribute much food, listeners were told. The French were instructed to memorize details of London broadcasts for fear their wireless sets might soon be confiscated by the Germans.

50 Girls Leave for Marine Training

Under orders of Betty L. O'Brien of Brockton, two score and a half girls leave South Station today for training at Camp Lejeune, N. C., where, after indoctrination and specialized courses, they will be assigned to Marine bases all over the nation and relieve men for active duties on the seven fronts. Girl recruits came from all over New England.

2 Red Armies Close for Kill

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, April 18 (AP)—Two big Russian armies were reported nearing a juncture in the outskirts of Sevastopol today for a final onslaught against a frenzied Axis garrison barricaded in the streets after failing to effect a large scale evacuation from the burning city.

(The Vichy radio, quoting a German report, said the battle for Sevastopol has now commenced," with very heavy fighting taking place in the fortified region of the town.)

Front dispatches said that Gen. Yeremenko's independent maritime army was moving downhill on the city from the southeast after cracking a 2200-foot mountain position known as Baidar gate in a drive that yesterday swept up a road junction 12 miles from Sevastopol and five miles from Balaklava, scene of the famed "Charge of the Light Brigade."

This force, moving through dense minefields, was expected to link up at any hour with Gen. Tolbukhin's Fourth Ukraine army, already filtering through Sevastopol's barricades from the north, the dispatches said.

(The Vichy broadcast asserted that the German-Romanian withdrawal toward the southwest of the Crimean peninsula was "being effected in perfect order and in complete accordance with German plans.)

All reports from the front including those from correspondents who have flown night and day over Sevastopol, indicated that the German command has not been able to accomplish a Dunkirk scale evacuation, although in the last few days the trapped Axis troops tried to get out of the battered port on any kind of craft they could find.

Tough Break

FORT McPHERSON, Ga., April 18 (AP)—Any member of Fort McPherson's baseball team can get a three-day pass if he wallops a ball through a window of the commanding officer's quarters during a game.

Col. Frank K. Ross, post commander made the offer.

The colonel's quarters are across the street just behind the right-field fence. It takes a 340-foot drive from home plate to reach his house.

Judson Kirke already has blasted the ball into the colonel's yard several times.

Allied Gag On Envoys

LONDON, April 18 (AP)—Britain today banned trips outside this country by diplomats of all neutral and Allied nations except the United States, Russia and the British Commonwealth and made all their communications subject to full censorship.

The action, latest in a series of steps taken to safeguard invasion information, was without precedent, but the foreign office announced that "military operations impending in the present year" made it imperative. Washington and Moscow were consulted in the move.

The order in effect immobilized the diplomats and their staffs, including air, military and naval attaches, within Britain's shores for the time being. None may go home.

Diplomatic pouches, heretofore inviolate, now will be opened and all their contents put through the censorship mill. Not even in the first World War was such action taken. Coded telegrams are banned.

The regulations went into effect at midnight and will remain in force until further notice.

"Any inadvertent disclosure of information which resulted in helping the enemy or in unnecessary loss of British or Allied lives might have such serious effects upon the course of these (invasion) operations that the government has reluctantly felt bound to adopt this unusual security measure," the foreign service said.

"These restrictions will, of course, be removed at the earliest possible moment consistent with the requirements of security."

A spokesman explained that such Allies as China, Brazil and others were made subject to the order because they are not immediately concerned with establishment of the western front.

Previous Allied steps to keep invasion information from leaking to the enemy included banning visitors from an area 10 miles deep and 700 miles long on England's southern and eastern coasts, suspension of all except the most vital travel between England and Ireland, prohibition of all news concerning convoy arrivals, and suspension of air mail between Britain and neutral countries.

Japs Peril Bengal Link

By RICHARD C. BERGHOLZ
Associated Press War Worker

Tokyo claimed Japan's offensive into India has carried within a mile and a half of the vital Bengal-Assam railroad, but there wasn't a word of confirmation from Allied sources.

Instead, Lord Mountbatten's headquarters reported successes in the Allies' own offensive into Burma, told of Jap defeats along the northern Burma supply system and generally indicated there was nothing to dim the confidence surrounding the defense of India and the important railroad.

The Tokyo radio claim put Jap troops six miles southeast of Dimapur, a junction on the key Bengal-Assam railroad over which supplies flow for Gen. Stilwell's troops trying to blast a short-cut land route from Ledo, India, to Chinese bases.

JAPS AGAIN CLAIM KOHIMA

Tokyo said this great advance, which means the railroad may be blocked soon, was made possible by the capture of Kohima, Allied base 35 miles south of Dimapur, on April 6, and subsequently release of troops there.

Mountbatten has never reported the fall of Kohima, has communiqued all attacks on the base have been repulsed and said counterattacks have cleared the enemy from several road-straddling positions near Kohima.

Associated Press Correspondent Thoburn Wiant reported in a delayed dispatch official Allied quarters estimated at least one Jap division had been withdrawn from eastern Burma to combat Allied forces preying on supply routes in northern Burma feeding the enemy's India drive.

BOMB HOLLANDIA AGAIN

The methodical air campaign to blast the Jap out of each defensive outpost in the southwest Pacific continues. Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea, caught the latest.

Gen. MacArthur declined to tell the Japs just how many tons of bombs pounded the base except to say it was more than 200 tons and a heavy blow.

Australian ground troops pushed two miles beyond captured Bogadjim toward the once-important base of Madang, New Guinea, but met no opposition.

Planes from the southwest and central Pacific teamed up for a one-two punch on Truk's defenses in the Carolines.

Yanks, Luftwaffe in Big Battle

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

LONDON, April 18 (AP)—Widespread air battles were fought over Germany today, the Berlin radio said, by the Luftwaffe and strong formations of fighter-escorted American bombers which struck the Reich from the north and continued on to the central sector.

RAF Mosquito bombers blasted the Rhineland city of Cologne last night.

The air ministry announced one plane was lost in night operations which also included minelaying.

Allied Mediterranean Air Forces meanwhile, completed 72 hours of incessant hammering of the Balkan supply lines as Wellingtons and Liberators smashed at the Plovdiv railyards, 85 miles southeast of the Bulgarian capital of Sofia.

It was the third straight day and night Italy-based bomber fleets carried the major share of the load in the two-way air squeeze on Hitler's Europe, although the Mosquito thrust at Cologne followed a daylight blow at enemy installations in northern France which broke a three-day lull for heavy bombers based in Britain.

The attack on Plovdiv followed daylight smashes by Fortresses and Liberators at rail targets in Sofia and Belgrade and plane plants and an airdrome in the Belgrade area.

Of some 50 enemy aircraft encountered during the day, 25 fell before guns of the heavy bombers and fighters during the Sofia and Belgrade raids. Fortress and Liberator gunners shot down 15 fighters, one over northern Italy. Escorting planes bagged seven fighters at Sofia and three transport planes near Belgrade.

Photo interpretation of the attack on the Sofia railyards showed numerous bomb hits in the freight yards, warehouse areas and repair shops. Industrial buildings also were damaged.

At Belgrade direct hits were registered on a warehouse, train sheds and the main station. Much rolling stock was wrecked. The aircraft factory at the Rogarski airfield near Belgrade was well covered with bombs and bombs hit at least five hangars.

Jap Spies Used Novels as Code

BUENOS AIRES, April 18 (AP)—Mystery thriller methods through which a Japanese spy ring dispatched information to Tokyo early in the war were unfolded last night in an Argentine government announcement which said almost all Axis espionage has been stamped out.

Giving details of activities which led to Argentina's break with Germany and Japan, a communique said Japs sent home data by a code based on certain letters in novels and other books marked almost imperceptibly.

Anzio Outpost Seized by Allies

NAPLES, April 18 (INS)—Allied infantry patrols, stabbing ahead under cover of a heavy artillery barrage, drove forward along a narrow sector of the Anzio bridgehead today and reoccupied an advanced outpost which had been yielded to the Nazis several days ago.

The Doughboys and Tommies pushed the Germans back in this strip, some four miles inland from the coast, at the same time as artillerymen laid down a heavy barrage against the enemy above Cisterna.

German batteries retaliated by stepping up their fire along the entire eastern flank of the beachhead line and staging a small raid against Allied positions on the western edge. This was driven off with comparatively heavy casualties.

Berlin Expects Invasion To Win Bridgeheads

A fresh crop of invasion speculation popped up today in Swedish papers under Berlin datelines.

The dispatches all quoted a German high command spokesman or military circles and took the line that "invasion from the west is imminent."

All reported a comparative lull in RAF heavy bomber operations in recent weeks while the Americans were engaged in intense air activity.

"German military circles are convinced the attackers will succeed in gaining a foothold and establishing strong bridgeheads at various places on the continent," one correspondent wrote. "The Germans are prepared for possible initial successes for the Allise but have unlimited optimism concerning the final outcome."

One report spoke vaguely of "new German secret weapons" which their inventors expect to "blow invasion troops from their bridgeheads."

"The Germans place confidence in the morale and fighting trim of their troops and in mobile reserves available to oppose invasion," another newspaper reported.

Rent Gouging Probe Widens

By STANLEY CHIPMAN AND DONALD MacPHAIL

Landlords who exploit servicemen by charging them rentals in excess of the legal ceiling were under investigation today by the OPA Area Rent Office, which sent special questionnaires to 600 members of the armed forces who are being trained at Harvard.

The soldiers and sailors, many of whom have hired temporary quarters in Cambridge to house their families, were ordered to notify the OPA agency what rent they are paying and what facilities they are given for it.

One query directed: "Please state whether you are now paying, or ever paid your landlord a bonus other than rent."

Army and Navy authorities are co-operating with the Area Rent Office in making the Cambridge survey. Many of the men who received the questionnaires are members of the Chaplains School at Harvard and lease apartments from Cambridge landlords.

So many complaints were received from the military students, the OPA agency decided to launch a general survey

The replies will be checked with statements as to rent and facilities previously made by their landlords to the Area Rent Office.

Registration blanks which property owners are required to file with rent control officials if they have tenants contain this information.

Questionnaires identical with the ones sent to military students at Harvard were also sent to a large number of tenants in Norwood. A spot-check survey there last week showed 25 per cent of the landlords investigated were violating the rent control regulations. Some were charging over-the-ceiling rentals. Others had not even registered their property.

Several war plant areas are also under investigation. Lowell is one. The question system was used there. Replies are beginning to pour into the Area Rent Office. Some of the signers complained they were being forced to pay more than the legal ceiling but OPA officials declined to disclose the number until the returns are all in.

Meanwhile, the Army has called the attention of the Boston Better Business Bureau to a "locating" agency here which charges servicemen a fee for a list of places where they may find apartments or rooms. Army officials said the agency does not guarantee the places will be vacant or available and keeps the fee even if the serviceman finds every place on his list occupied.

Wife on Stand Again in Attack

Speaking in a low voice barely audible to spectators, Mrs. Thelma Ward, attractive 21-year-old wife of a disabled Coast Guardsman, in Suffolk Superior Court today completed her story of how she was beaten and robbed as she walked along Chandler st., South End, in December, 1942.

MRS. THELMA WARD

Calm and composed in contrast to her collapse which caused a mistrial last weke, Mrs. Ward pointed to Donald Lewis, 19, of Central st., Andover, as her assailant.

"That's the man sitting there," she replied when Asst. Dist. Atty. Edward Cullivan asked if she saw her attacker in the courtroom.

Mrs. Ward said she went to Chattanooga, Tenn., with her husband, Seaman 1/c Daniel Ward, the day after the attack. She returned Feb. 23 and saw Lewis in South Station, she said.

"He brushed against me and said 'How do you do again' and walked along," Mrs. Ward testified.

"I went over to an MP standing nearby and told him that was the man who robbed me but he was gone before the MP could catch him."

She said she saw Lewis, a Pullman car cook, in the station four days later and this time he was taken into custody by railroad police.

Mrs. Ward, formerly of Chattanooga, Tenn., said she was walking to work at a South Station newsstand at 6:30 a. m., Dec. 27, 1942, when Lewis drove up to the curb on Chandler st., South End, got out of his car and seized her.

When she tried to fight him off, he struck her in the face, causing her mouth and nose to bleed. She asserted that her asailant tried to drag her into his auto and she told him he could have her purse if he would let her go. Then he struck her in the jaw, she testified.

Panties, Axe Put Him in Hospital

Enraged because she found a pair of women's panties in his pocket, according to police, a 27-year-old Dorchester wife and mother allegedly hacked her husband today as he slept, then cut him again when he struggled out of bed and grappled with her for the hatchet.

MRS. CATHERINE McATEER
Held in Assault on Hubby
INP by Harry Simard

In Dorchester court a few hours later, Mrs. Catherine McAteer, Epping st., pale and wan, pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon on James B. McAteer with intent to murder.

The case was continued one week and she was held in $5000 bail when Sergt. Robert Hayhurst of Mattapan station told Judge David Rose the victim was in a serious condition at City Hospital.

According to the sergeant, police recovered the bloody hatchet in the backyard of the McAteer home, where the 30-year-old husband said he had flung it.

Mattapan officers sped to the McAteer home after neighbors, alarmed by cries, had telephoned Mattapan station.

McAteer was found in a serious condition with a deep gash on his right cheek, another on his right ear, cuts on his head and a possible brain concussion.

While he was being taken to the hospital, Mrs. McAteer was removed to the station and questioned by officers, among them Capt. Edward J. Keating of the headquarters homicide squad.

She told them, police said, she and her husband had been drinking and he retired about 1 a. m. Then she washed the dishes, she stated, went to the bedroom of 3-year-old Kathleen.

Next she went into her husband's room to pick up clothing she intended washing, she said, and found the panties, which so enraged her she obtained the hatchet and struck him with it several times.

He awoke and she ran out to the bathroom, but he got up and chased her, according to police, when she cut him again before he succeeded in wresting the hatchet away.

Another child, Patricia McAteer, 10, is living with Mrs. McAteer's mother, police said.

Truman Probers Bare Wide War Job Waste

By WILLIAM S. NEAL

WASHINGTON, April 18 (INS)—The Senate Truman Committee revealed today that it is making another investigation of the whole manpower problem which may affect draft policy and proposals for national service legislation.

The disclosure was made as Senator Homer Ferguson (R.) of Michigan, a committee member declared a personal investigation has revealed widespread waste of money and men on cost-plus-fixed-fee war contracts.

Sen. Harry Truman (D.) of Missouri, chairman of the committee, said the manpower problem is being conducted partly by the questionnaire method and that a report will soon be issued.

"We are winning the battle of production and I saw nothing on my trip to the West Coast to change my mind in opposition to national service," said Truman.

"Conflicting draft and manpower orders are causing confusion and should be ended."

Ferguson's inquiry took him from Mobile, Ala., to the Pacific coast and embraced the Detroit area. He included the inquiry into the cost-plus contracts with other Truman committee work.

"I am more convinced than ever that the cost-plus contract causes hoarding of labor and material, carelessness, extravagance and inefficiency," said Ferguson. He reported these discoveries:

1—Some contractors who got cost plus contracts were found inefficient, and hired other firms, at government expense, to run their businesses for them.

2—Cost-plus contractors, with government paying the bill, "pirate" workers from other plants and avoid stabilization orders by up-grading them to increase pay.

3—Conflicting manpower and draft orders are causing damage to war production.

Sedition Trial of 30 Seen Facing Delay

WASHINGTON, April 18 (AP)—Search for a missing defendant may delay the trial of 30 persons accused of conspiring with Nazi agents to undermine the loyalty of American armed forces in a campaign to "destroy democracy throughout the world."

Thirty were called when the case was opened in Federal District Court yesterday, but only 29 answered.

Justice Edward C. Eicher promptly ordered forfeited the $100 bail of Edward James Smythe of New York, the missing one, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation set out to find him.

O. John Rogge, special assistant to the attorney-general, told reporters the prosecution would wait until a "reasonable hour" today and if Smythe still was absent it would be decided whether to seek a postponement of the entire case or a severance (separate trial later) for Smythe.

At the opening session Justice Eicher overruled numerous motions by the 21 defense attorneys which would have delayed proceedings.

Among the defendants are Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling of Chicago, author of the Red Network; Miss Lois de Lafayette Washburn of Chicago, described as organizer of the National Liberty Party; Gerard Wilhelm Kunze of New York, said by the Justice Department to be leader of the German-American Bund after 1939, and George Sylvester Viereck, New York author under sentence of from one to five years for failure to register as a German agent. All are charged with seditious conspiracy against the United States.

F. D. Health Bars Campaign, Sen. Wheeler Says Here

President Roosevelt's health is the first of three reasons why he will not be a candidate for 16 years in the White House, Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, Montana Democrat, said in Boston today.

The Senator, a Massachusetts native, expressed himself as "certain" that the President does not want the nomination for a Fourth Term.

"His health has not been good since the Teheran conference," Wheeler said. "That is the first reason. Why he should want to run is a second consideration. And thirdly, any Democrat will have a hard time getting elected.

"The Democratic party has been, or will have been, in power for 12 years. That is too long for any party to remain in power. I wouldn't vote for my own brother for President on a fourth term ticket. Every state north of the Mason-Dixon line will be in the doubtful column this fall, including Massachusetts."

The senator, who arrived here for a speaking engagement Friday, declined to speculate on a Democratic nominee to succeed the President, but said it would probably be "a compromise candidate between the New Dealers and the more conservative element."

Sen. Wheeler, accompanied by his wife, visited one of their sons, Ensign George Wheeler, who is completing a Navy course at Harvard. The Wheelers are guests here of Nelson C. Smith of Boston and Duxbury.

Army Nurse Finds Twin Son Suffocated in Crib

When Lieut. Florine Adams, 30-year-old U. S. Army nurse, returned to Boston from her overseas post three months ago, leaving her husband, John, at his Army post in England, they laughingly agreed that if the offspring they expected should be twins, a boy and a girl, they'd name the infants John, Jr., and Florine.

Nine weeks ago, Mrs. Adams gave birth to twins, a boy and a girl, and they were christened according to the agreement.

Today, tragedy struck the Adams home in St. John st., Jamaica Plain.

When Mrs. Adams went to the crib where the babies sleep together, to give them their early morning feeding, little John was unconscious. Hastily, she telephoned police, and Dr. Fred Beering, of South st., Jamaica Plain, was summoned to the home.

He pronounced John, Jr., dead of suffocation. The little fellow had turned over in his sleep and apparently smothered himself, face down in the mattress.

Hysterical with grief, the heart-broken mother was placed under the doctor's care.

DON GENTILE'S OWN STORY

'Daisy-Dusting' Saves His Life

By LEE CARSON
(Copyright, 1944, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

A U. S. FIGHTER STATION IN ENGLAND, April 18—You don't have to be "slightly wacky and shot with luck," but America's No. 1 ace in the European war theater, Capt. Don Gentile, will testify that "it sure helps."

Don's most recent handout from Lady Luck saved him from death in a crash landing born of "some pretty crazy daisy-dusting."

As always, Don returned from his mission feeling good, swooped down to "buzz" the field and suddenly smacked the ground, bouncing almost two miles into a rough field.

When the jeep came to pick him up, Don was sitting nonchalantly on the wing of his badly battered and almost halved plane, "Shangri-La." The propellor was bent back like so many flower petals, the tail structure attached to the fuselage only by a few cables and tortured rivets.

But Don himself apparently was suffering only from a bruised elbow and a searing fury.

DON GENTILE
As He Looked in 1938

LOTS OF CLOSE CALLS

"It's not the first time I've pulled a 'Hairbreadth Harry' and come out practically unscratched," Don admits wryly.

"Of course, lots of close calls have not been my fault but just part of the business of combat flying—boy, I'll never forget that day last January—the 14th, I think. We were somewhere around the Compiegne woods in France flying south when we spotted 15 Nazi FW190's flying east about 5000 feet below us.

"I gave my section the come-on and took them on down. As soon as we started, the Jerries caught on and fanned out into two groups.

"I picked out two stragglers and attacked. Both went into a fast 50-degree dive and I closed in to about 300 yards and fired a long burst at the one on the left. I saw strikes hit him around the cockpit and few seconds later smoke billowed out. He rolled over very slowly and went into a spiral dive that landed him in a million pieces near the woods.

FOE HITS WOODS

"I slid over quick-like back of the other FW190 and gave him a squirt at about 150 yards. We were in a very shallow dive about 4000 feet up. I saw hits around his cockpit and engine and as I was trying to follow him on down to get another shot at him he hit the woods and I just barely missed snagging the treetops myself.

"Then the rough stuff began. Just as I pulled out to miss hanging myself in a tree, two FW190's pounced on me and the marathon of all time was on. The No. 1 FW was so close I not only heard his guns and felt his hits ping into old 'Shangri-La,' but I swear I could hear that Jerry breathing on my neck.

"I broke away as soon as I could and he went over me. I stayed in the port turn I had made to break from the No. 1 Jerry because No. 2 was coming at me like a bat out of hades' cellar, but he wasn't firing—I don't know why.

"In the meantime, No. 1 comes boring back, pulls up sharply to position himself to give me the business, but I outfoxed him, swung to the starboard and got in a short burst at No. 2.

"No. 2 never showed up again. But No. 1 kept me company—plenty. All this was going on at treetop height and that ain't good I jerked around to port again to get away from the Jerry who was throwing tracer bullets at me—fortunately with bad aim.

KEEPS ON SKIDDING

"I gave my guns a try and guess what—no ammunition! Wow, what a spot! I was trying to out-time him, but he stayed right there and kept firing away. I turned away suddenly and just about draped myself on the trees. Then I reversed my turn to starboard—and there he was still blazing away with his guns.

"I kept on skidding and turning—did everything I could think of and a lot I never had thought of until then. There was nothing to do but pretend I had ammunition and keep on maneuvering.

"He slid under and overshot and I reversed to the port side. For the next 10 minutes I played a fantastic game of bluff—kept trying to get on his tail, while he kept trying to get on mine. Even if I had got on his I wouldn't have been able to do anything unless I could get close enough to club him to death.

"Then he came in on me dead center on my tail. I sucked in my breath and prayed hard. But he didn't fire! He had run out of ammunition as well—so about all we could do was make faces at each other. He turned off and started home. I felt like getting out and doing a rhumba on the wings.

"I climbed carefully upstairs full of gratitude and good will toward men and headed back for England. What luck! Boy, what luck.

"Luck—and the fear of God should be the standard equipment of a fighter pilot," Don added. A devout Catholic, the young ace attends mass every Sunday morning — the time depending on whether or not a mission was scheduled.

There are a couple of tricks Don would like to pass on to all the boys who will be coming over here to fight in the air over Hitlerland:

"One is to learn to stare fixedly for a long moment at every segment of the sky when over enemy territory. The trouble with a lot of fellows is they just give the area a general glance and don't take in the distant specks which within the flicker of an eyelash turn out to be Jerries blazing away.

"Eyesight and using it to your advantage is a big help in this game. My eyes are 20-20, which means perfect and I thank God for it. But even with perfect eyesight some fighters meet an untimely death by not using it properly. You got to take a real good look around.

"Another tip for combat boys is don't be over-anxious. If you see two Jerries flying along don't jump them before taking a look to see the other Jerries in the area. Then make a quick plan of attack, figure out what to do if the plan goes awry, get set, and go in fast."

R. I. Air Crash Kills 2 Pilots

By the Associated Press

Two Navy planes collided and crashed into a swamp in Charlestown, R. I., last night, the Navy announced today, and the bodies of the pilots, only occupants of the planes, were recovered.

The tragedy occurred while the ships, on a training mission, were over the Pasquiset Indian trail.

The planes hit the ground in an almost inaccessable spot and it was not until daylight that a rescue party was able to find the wreckage. One plane caught fire after crashing. Both planes were demolished.

Names of the dead pilots were withheld.

The ships were operating out of the Navy auxiliary air facility at Charlestown, the Navy said.

Chaplin Again Pleads To Quash Baby Suit

LOS ANGELES, April 18 (AP)—Comedian Charlie Chaplin petitioned the State Supreme Court to quash 24-year-old Joan Berry's civil suit naming him as the father of her 6-months-old baby, Carol Ann.

Through his attorneys, the actor-producer made the same plea which the Superior Court and the District Court of Appeals had refused to recognize. This was that a stipulation was entered into with Miss Berry and her mother, Mrs. Getrude Berry, as guardian of the child, that the suit would be dismissed if blood test indicated Chaplin was not the father.

VFW Head Lauds Vets' Job Help

Paying tribute to leaders of business and industry for helping discharged war veterans find jobs, National Commander-in-Chief Carl J. Schoeninger of the Veterans of Foreign Wars predicted today that the longer the war continues, unemployment compensation payments to veterans will grow less.

However, some kind of veterans' preference plan for placing returning soldiers and sailors in civilian jobs will have to be worked out after the war, he said; otherwise, men released from war plants and those in uniform stationed in this country will get the desirable positions first.

Here for his annual conference with Massachusetts department officers, Comdr. Schoeninger had the following busy program in store today:

Dedication of the honor roll at the John A. Dickerman Vocational School, Somerville; city luncheon at the Parker House; visit to the Chelsea Soldiers' Home; guest of honor at Hotel Kenmore dinner; military ball of the Boston Police Post, VFW, at the Copley-Plaza tonight.

D-Day Prayer

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., April 18 (AP)—Huntsville churches will offer spiritual support for the Allied invasion of Europe as soon as it happens.

A plan endorsed by city and church leaders calls for a three-minute suspension of traffic at a whistle blast signifying the official announcement of the invasion with all churches to hold prayer services at 7:30 o'clock on the evening of "D-Day."

Churchill Clings To League Hope

LONDON, April 18 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, in answer to several questions concerning conferences toward postwar agreements, told the Commons today "the great body of work achieved by the League of Nations" ought not be lost in the postwar peace setup.

"I think if the League of Nations had been properly backed up it would have been successful," he said. "Preliminary exchanges of opinion on postwar questions are constantly taking place between members of the 34 United Nations, but I cannot hold out the expectation any agreed statement on the subject will be made in the near future."

Capt. Frederick John Bellenger asked whether plans for organizing and maintaining peace which U. S. Secy. Hull mentioned recently conflicted with the League's covenant.

"I thought, as a great many people did, Mr. Hull's speech was most helpful," Churchill replied.

He said these matters would "be decided only at the end of the war."

Paris Says F. D., Churchill to Meet

LONDON, April 18 (INS)—The Paris radio, apparently engaging in a search for information on behalf of the Nazis, today quoted Lisbon reports that a meeting between Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt is imminent.

Other enemy transmitters have also made similar allegations in the last few days.

Mussolini Foe Flees

BERN, Switzerland, April 18 (AP)—Giuseppe Bastianini, former Italian ambassador to London, sentenced to death for his vote to oust Mussolini, has taken refuge in Switzerland, a communique announced today.

Patriotic Fetes Here Will Mark Holiday

Through communities where thousands of Americans have answered today's call to arms, the spirit of Paul Revere, William Dawes and Dr. Samuel Prescott will ride again tomorrow as the feature event of the 169th observance of Patriots' Day.

Citizens of Arlington, Concord, Lexington, Medford, Brookline, Cambridge and Somerville will join with Boston in official programs commemorating the opening of the Revolutionary War.

The Boston exercises will start at 9:45 a. m., with flag raising exercises at City Hall and a parade through School, Washington and North sts., to Paul Revere Mall, Hanover st., North End.

Revere, impersonated by Capt. Calvin I. Hatch, and Dawes, in the person of Lieut. Lockhart J. Smith, troopers of the United American Veterans, will start their rides at 10:30 a. m. Revere will leave from the Hanover st. Mall, and Dawes from John Eliot sq., Roxbury.

After the departure of the riders, Boston's morning program includes memorial exercises at King's Chapel Burying Ground, at Granary Burying Ground, and at the Revolutionary Burying Ground on Boston Common.

In the afternoon, on the same training grounds used by Massachusetts fighting men since 1775—now MacArthur Mall on the Common—there will be a military demonstration with detachments from all branches of the armed forces, their auxiliaries, and members of the State Guard and the Women's Defense Corps participating.

With the arrival of Dawes and Revere at Lexington Green, at 1:10 p. m., Martha Magurn, in the role of Samuel Prescott, will "carry the alarm" to Concord where exercises will be held at Concord bridge at 2:45 p. m.

Britain Acts To Ban Strikes

LONDON, April 18 (AP)—The British government announced a new defense regulation today authorizing penalties up to five years' imprisonment and $2000 fines to curb strikes.

The regulation, in force immediately, presumably was an outgrowth of investigations of mine, shipyard and other strikes impairing the war output.

Sections of the British press have said some of these walkouts were stimulated by subversive elements with the purpose of disrupting production.

3 Bay State Men Win Mercy Flight Honor

Heroes of a 10,000-mile Arctic flight in which they rescued a sick meteorologist and brought supplies to lonely outposts, three Massachusetts fliers and two from Maine will be awarded Air Medals at Logan Airport, East Boston, Saturday.

The five who took part in the flight are members of a Northeast Airlines crew who undertook the mission for the air transport command. The Bay Staters are:

Capt. A. V. R. Marsh, Plummer ave., Winthrop, commander; Francis B. Chalifoux, Maple st., Wenham, co-pilot and second in command; Winston A. Peacock, Harvard st., Wollaston, flight mechanic.

Their Maine comrades are Lester . Hughes of Turner st., Presque Isle, radio officer, and Joseph Sewall of Stillwater ave., Old Town, navigator.

The War Department disclosed today they had taken off from Presque Isle, March 28, 1943, on a mercy trip in a Douglas transport which was to circle the magnetic pole and fly above the Arctic Circle.

Waiting for them at his post in waffin Land, was George Brewster, Detroit, an ailing government weather observer. He had been ill for two months and was in dire need of medical attention.

But Brewster's post could not be left unmanned. So the fliers took two other meterologists to replace him.

They also carried more than 2000 pounds of food and radio equipment for other outposts where supplies had run short and help was needed.

Because of the danger of being forced down so far from civilization, where a rescue might take months, they took 1840 pounds of rations, 2000 rounds of ammunition, 3000 matches, a light sled, candles and other equipment.

One of teh plane's two engines faltered continuously over one leg of the trip while they were hundreds of miles from a temporary base at Hudson bay.

The trip lasted 13 days. At one point it was necessary to keep the engines running for 14 hours on the ground because of the cold os intense the fliers feared they would not be able tos tart the motors otherwise.

Tito Forces, Nazis In Fierce Battles

LONDON, April 18 (AP)—Renewed German attempts to wipe out the Yugoslav Partisans have brought fierce fighting in eastern Bosnia and Montenegro, headquarters of Marshal Tito announced today.

The broadcast communique said the Nazis, using "strong forces," were meeting stout resistance near Zvornik in Bosnia.

GOP Split Assures Vet Hospital Beds

With Republican ranks in the Senate split over the House proposal for construction of a 200-bed addition to the Soldiers' Home in Chelsea, passage of the measure today appeared virtually assured, and prorogation of the special session of the Legislature by nightfall was considered probable.

The division in GOP Senate forces developed after two prolonged party caucuses when Senators Cornelius F. Haley of Rowley, Thomas H. Johnston of Clinton and Richard Furbish of Waltham, who had opposed the proposal when the Senate originally rejected it by a 16-12 vote, announced they would vote for approval. Their switch would assure passage by a 15-13 vote.

With both branches in session today, first business before the Senate was an order introduced by Sen. Donald W. Nicholson, Wareham Republican, asking that the Supreme Judicial Court rule on the constitutionality of the House amendment.

Nicholson claimed that the Legislature had no right to direct Gov. Saltonstall to spend up to $750,000 from his war emergency fund to pay for the proposed hospital addition, as provided in the House-approved resolve.

Vote on the hospital-addition bill was delayed until today by the lengthy Republican Senate caucuses, and action on Nicholson's order also was deferred when the Senate adopted an adjournment motion by a 20 to 10 party line roll call vote.

The legislature today received a resolution from the Boston City Council asking that the special session be extended until a bonus bill was passed, but leaders said there was little likelihood that any other legislation for veterans would be considered now.

Invasion of Kuriles Certain, Knox Says

WASHINGTON, April 18 (AP)—Invasion of a part of the Kurile Island chain reaching north from the enemy homeland may be expected, Sec. Knox said today.

Asked at a news conference whether it was likely the United States would attempt to take that island group in the north Pacific, he replied "sometime, sure, but nobody knows when."

The discussion was prompted by the increasing regularity of American bombing raids on the chain which extends from the Japanese mainland north to the Russian Kamachatka peninsula.

Among the bases which have been struck frequently there, particularly in the last five days, is Matsuwa, less than 500 miles from the mainland of Japan.

Knox said the developments have been confined to bombardment of the Kuriles and continuing aerial assaults on enemy positions cut off from supplies in the Eastern Marshalls, and the regular bombings of the enemy bases in the Caroline Island group including Truk and Ponape.

He said the Japanese evidently were "trying their best to get some supplies" into the isolated bases in the eastern part of the mid-Pacific Marshalls, but "without much success." From six to ten barges a day are being sunk as they attempt to run supplies into the bases," the Navy secretary said.

Newton Bride's Husband Killed

Previously reported by the War Department as wounded, the 24-year-old bridegroom of an Auburndale girl has been reported killed in action, apparently the victim of a crash landing in New Guinea. Lieut. Leonard J. Rattigan, husband of Mrs. Victorine K. Rattigan of Hancock st., Auburndale; and son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Rattigan of Manchester, N. H., is co-pilot of a B-24 Liberator bomber.

A graduate of St. Joseph's school, Manchester, and the Bentley School of Accounting, before joining the Army he was employed by the New York Mutual Life Insurance Co.

Seek Easter War Service Details

LONDON, April 18 (AP)—Laborite Rhys Davies asked in Commons today if War Minister Sir James Grigg were aware German and Allied troops had joined in the same Easter worship on the Garigliano front in Italy, where Allied services were reported broadcast to the Nazi lines.

Grigg said he had no information on the incident and said that sector was under American control. Asked if he would make inquiries, he replied:

"I will certainly see if I can get any information, but I am bound to say there are lots of rather more urgent messages passing."

(News dispatches from the front had reported the Germans held their fire during broadcast of the services.)

Man Wins Dismissal Of Larceny Charge

A larceny charge against Joseph J. Buono of Tobin rd., West Roxbury has been dismissed by Judge Joseph E. Donovan for want of prosecution in municipal court, it was revealed today.

The complainant was Lucy K. Lahage of 58 Westmore rd., Mattapan. In obtaining a complaint, Special Officer James F. Hanley had charged Buono with selling her a city-owned lot of land in Westmore rd.

Whiskey shortage may be a "break" for you

WHEN YOU "SAMPLE" CORBY'S

A GRAND OLD CANADIAN NAME

As they say in sports, "The way to get a 'break' is to make it!" You might make a "break" for yourself, for instance, when a whiskey clerk says, "We're out of that one." You can be sure this is due to wartime limitations, but right here may be your chance to step into a nice spot . . .

Just ask about Corby's, the whiskey with the grand old Canadian name. If this light, sociable blend is on hand, buy a "sample" bottle, carry it carefully home, proceed to mix your "best-company" drink with Corby's in proper measure. And then . . .

Have yourself a long, thoughtful drink. Compare Corby's bouquet and flavor. Like thousands of people, you may decide you've had not only one but two good "breaks" . . . a fine drink for now, and a discovery of the whiskey you'll definitely want for your favorite after Victory!

PRODUCED IN U. S. A. under the direct supervision of our expert Canadian blender.

It's true that no Corby's has been distilled since October, 1942. But reserve supplies are being distributed regularly . . . and evenly. This means you should be able to buy a "sample" bottle of Corby's some time reasonably soon. And when you do, when you follow the one-two-three suggestion above in this ad, you'll likely consider yourself "set up" on the whiskey question. You'll have a whiskey you can enjoy from time to time now, and you'll have an odds-on favorite for after Victory when there's plenty of Corby's to go around.

Aussie Press Ban Tension Increases

SYDNEY, Australia, April 18 (INS)—A state of tension existed today in Sydney, with the morning newspapers publishing under a high court injunction which restrained the Australian censor from preventing publication of controversial articles.

Near-rioting broke out in the city yesterday when security police stopped publication of the two evening newspapers, Sun and Mirror, both of which were expected to obtain injunctions and print two-day editions whenever possible.

The Dail Telegraps published an explanatory statement this morning on the censorship dispute which resulted in having the authorities stop publication of all morning and evening newspapers and seize undistributed copies.

The statement follows:

"Last Friday minister of information Arthur Calwell charged the chairman of the Australian Newspaper Proprietors' Ass'n, R. A. Henderson, with inaccuracy and untruthfulness. Henderson tried to reply by quoting examples of what he considered political censorship.

"The examples he quoted were censored by Calwell's officers. Saturday's Daily Telegraph left blanks on page three. Saturday the 'Sunday Telegraph' was ordered to submit all page proofs to the censor who eliminated a second statement by Henderson and mutilated an editorial article.

"Acting on legal advice, the Daily Telegraph and Syney Morning Herald attempted on Monday to present all facts to their readers. Explanatory articles and editorial comment were censored, and when the newspapers insisted on publishing censored matter commonwealth police officers confiscated all editions. Yesterday (Monday(arfternoon's Sun and Mirror were dealt with similarly.

"The Daily Telegraph appears on Tuesday because the high court on Monday grante dan injunction until Friday restraining the censor from preventing publication of articles.

"Identical injunctions were granted on application of the Cydney Morning Herald and Mirror.

"All newspapers undertook not to publish any matter prejudicial to the war effort."

El Crash Tip Wins Top Prize

A South End woman who was quick to see the news value in a collision between an Elevated car and a truck, in which 36 passengers were injured, and called in a news "tip" to the city editor, yesterday received $4 first prize in the Daily Record-American-Sunday Advertiser weekly news tip contest.

Second prize of $3 went to a Chelsea girl for first word on an early morning fire. Four $2 awards were voted to a Brighton woman for a tip that 12 mules were running wild on St. John's Seminary grounds; an Everett man for a $10,000 factory fire; a Saugus woman, who saw a woman leap from her husband's moving automobile, and a Roslindale woman for a two-alarm fire.

Awards of $1 each were given to 10 alert witnesses of other automobile fatalities, fires, accidents, and other items of human interest.

The Custard Pie Recipe of
MRS. DELAHANTY

AS A BOY OF AROUND TEN, down in Quincy, my weakness was custard pie . . our neighbor Mrs. Delahanty's custard pie. I am sure I have never tasted better since that time. I still dream about them.

• Now Mrs. Delahanty, God rest her soul, lived not far away in a ramshackle house, surrounded by a large brood of lively children, among whom was a red-headed rascal named Joe, my bosom friend. Her housekeeping, as I remember it, was hurley burley, more or less catch-as-catch-can . . but my, oh my, how she could cook!

• And her greatest triumph was those delicious custard pies which she baked twice a week. I can taste them yet!

• One day, years later, I looked up Mrs. Delahanty. Frankly, I wanted that recipe. Pies like hers, I knew, would add one more star to Waldorf's crown.

• "Jimmy, my boy," she said . . "You don't need no recipe. Just take good eggs, sweet pure milk, a bit of sugar, and this and that . . swish 'em 'round a bit, pour them in the pie shells, put 'em in the oven, and then . . whist . . you have the pie."

• And that's Waldorf's custard pie . . just like any other, except we "swish 'em 'round a bit, and add this and that." Ah . . but what a difference!

President.

Oust Stimson, Knox Demand of Bricker

LOS ANGELES, April 18 (INS)—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, indicated that he believes replacement of Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of Navy Knox would "help speed the end of the war" and bring it to "victorious conclusion."

"Fighting men—a Marshall, a MacArthur or an Eisenhower" as Secretary of War, and "a King, Nimitz or Halsey," as Secretary of the Navy, men with leadership qualities who can be "an inspiration to the armed forces," were advocated by the Chief Executive of the Buckeye State.

Speaking before a huge throng at Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles, the aspirant for the Republican nomination for President declared:

"The cabinet posts of Secretary of War and Secretary of the Navy should be filled by men with acknowledged military and naval experience to help speed the end of the war.

"These are fighting jobs in wartime and ought to be held by fighting men if we are to bring this conflict to the earliest possible victorious conclusion.

"The custom of appointing civilians to these two cabinet posts is based on the fact that we are and have been traditionally a non-militaristic nation and we usually have had the desire to keep the military from dominating our civilian thinking.

"That policy," Gov. Bricker went on, "may work well in peace. But this is war. Our interests are not to keep the military establishment in check but to assist it in every way to consummate its task. Sufficient control over the War and Navy Departments still rests with the Congress and the chief executive, all elected by the people."

Two New JVA Units in Revere

Two new corps have been formed by the group of young Revere patriots of the Junior Victory Army, sponsored by Mrs. Lila O. Annis, of Harris st., to carry on home front war work.

They are part of the "MacArthur Quaker Wing Comrades" which now number 111 boys and girls, most of whom wear the JVA insignia pin and who meet regularly at the Walnut ave. school.

They have been concentrating recently on salvage of kitchen fats, scrap paper and other materials needed by Uncle Sam for his production of weapons.

Commanders of the new units are Jeanette Schieter and Betty McLaughlin. Captains are Gloria Lewis and Roberta Gallagher.

Meetings are opened with the salute to the flag. At the last session all members pledged themselves to gather and tie up at least one bundle of papers, to save rags and to bring in kitchen fats for disposal to dealers.

Part of the proceeds of the sale of their materials is going into a hospital benefit fund, Mrs. Annis says.

To join the JVA, send your name, age and full address to Junior Victory Army headquarters, P. O. Box 228, Boston, Mass. If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a 10-cent coin well-wrapped in your letter.

Read the next JVA story in Wednesday's Daily Record.

New Deal to Go, Warren Asserts

SAN JOSE, Calif., April 18—The New Deal administration "supported for election since its inception by the great, corrupt political Tammany" will be swept out of power in November, Gov. Earl Warren of California told the California Republican assembly here.

Introduced by Congressman John Z. Anderson of the eighth district as "California's favorite native son," Gov. Warren flayed the New Deal and accused it of seeking to concentrate all governmental powers.

Manager Backs Cambridge Raise

Proposed temporary pay increases of $100 to all Cambridge city employes for 1944 today had the backing of Cambridge City Mgr. John B. Atkinson, who estimates the boost will cost from $175,000 to $200,000.

Atkinson told the Cambridge City Council that the increases could be allowed, however, only if the council would permit enough money to be taken from the city's surplus funds to be added to anticipated income, in order to effect a $2 decrease in the tax rate.

"I DISCARDED HARSH LAXATIVES"

Ex-Constipation Sufferer Praises Kellogg's All-Bran

Taking nasty doses—for constipation due to lack of "bulk" in the diet? Then read this letter.

"I wish to submit this voluntary testimonial about KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN as a remedy for constipation. For years I found it necessary to take so-called patent laxatives. They gave me only partial aid. Since starting to use KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN I have discarded artificial aids. My reason for sending this note is to help those who are in the same boat I was." Wm. F. Fraser, 90-10 Barr Place, Hudson Heights, N. J.

More and more people write in about the joyous relief they get from KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. It really gets at one common cause of constipation — lack of certain cellulosic elements in the diet. For ALL-BRAN is one of Nature's most effective sources of these elements, which help to fluff up and prepare colonic wastes for easy, natural elimination. Remember, KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative or medicine, it is a grain cereal — a gentle-acting "regulating" food.

If your constipation is due to a bulk-deficiency in the diet, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly, as cereal or in several muffins. Drink plenty of water. See if you don't enjoy lasting relief. Get genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

A Plea for Poland

SENATOR ARTHUR H. VANDENBERG of Michigan has contributed a well considered and highly impressive observation on the menace to Polish sovereignty presented by Russia's imminent invasion and conquest.

Senator Vandenberg, while a ranking Republican member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is not ordinarily a critic of Administration foreign policy.

He has in fact co-operated with Administration foreign policy on so many occasions and in so many matters that he enjoys a certain prestige with the Administration.

But he is sharply at odds with the prevailing and continuing policy of official silence and inaction about Russia's obviously intended and openly avowed dismemberment of Poland.

Senator Vandenberg does not believe any credit should be withheld from Russia for her own magnificent resistance to German invasion and her brilliant repulse of that invasion.

"But neither would I withhold," he admonished the Senate, "the equally candid disclosure of our anxiety that we may be drifting toward misunderstanding and bitter disillusionment—which cannot possibly be good for either us or any of our Allies—unless we speedily restore a better understanding of what we thought we meant when, at the altar of our common sacrifice, we swore to each other to see rights and self-government restored to those who have been forcibly deprived of them."

Of course, the Russians have fought magnificently, said Senator Vandenberg.

But so have the peoples of the other United Nations.

And especially so have the Poles.

The present war is SUPPOSED to be a war of liberation and freedom, in which all the United Nations are associated and in which the formerly free and independent Poland was the first to be violated and deprived of sovereignty.

"It is a fraternity of combat," said Senator Vandenberg.

"It must be followed by a fraternity of peace in which all share the decisions and the blessings for which they strive and die."

But Russia is deliberately and ruthlessly banishing Poland from that fraternity.

And the silence and inaction of the other United Nations and of the United States constitute acceptance of the crime against Poland and make them share the responsibility and GUILT for that crime.

Russia may not be STAYED from her aggression and conquest against Poland by the objections and protests of her Allies.

But Russia should be made to know that she cannot violate Poland or any of her sovereign neighbors, against the objections of her Allies, without creating the bitterness that is the natural and inevitable consequence of bad treatment.

The American policy of silence about Poland is probably considered a policy of opportunism by those responsible for it, in the interest of having understanding and unity with Russia.

But, as Senator Vandenberg honestly and frankly warns, understanding is not to be created by that means or unity to be obtained by it.

A Real American Hero

CAPTAIN DON S. GENTILE, 23, tall, dark, quick-smiling, of Main street, Piqua, Ohio, deserves attention and praise, because sometimes we feel that the calibre of the youngsters America is sending to fight this war is more important than the quality of the equipment, the magnitude of Lend-Lease or the quantity of the loot that the international politicians will fight over at the "peace" table.

We think every American ought to be as proud of Don Gentile as are "Mama" and "Papa" Dominic Gentile, who run "Patsy's Cafe" in the typical little middle-of-America town of Piqua.

For, in a way, this young American is a vindication of everything we are fighting for.

Now one of America's leading aces, he is symbolic of the untried kids whom America gleaned from every crossroads and corner in an hour of dark and urgent need.

These boys, with the life of America in their veins and the way of America in their hearts, were the final fruit and proof of our philosophy as a nation.

They had never been regimented into state-controlled youth movements, or had wooden guns thrust into their hands as babies so that they could drill with other toddlers, or taught to "heil" or bow or salute or pay reverence to any man who had set himself up as bigger than God. Or to hate and persecute and torture and kill their neighbors either.

They grew up in American homes, free and unregimented, in the American philosophy—which gives dignity, beauty and value to the individual human life over and above the claims of any super-government or super-state.

They have proved, in all theaters of the war, that this doctrine of freedom and the ultimate worth of the individual is superior to any other philosophy yet designed to control the relationship between men and their government.

WASHINGTON, April 18—The Army, which does about everything else for our warriors, has also set up machinery to provide them with legal advice.

This is operated in conjunction with the American Bar Association which agreed that existence might be brightened for many a soldier if he had the services of a good mouthpiece.

The setup is very elaborate and covers a wide field. Every post, camp, or exchange has a legal assistance officer, ready to spray advice from Blackstone and Frankfurter at a minute's notice.

Although not too openly advertised—because, after all, the Army does not wish to encourage our fighters to devote their main efforts to suing somebody—the existence of the lawyer-on-the-cuff business is not kept secret either. Any soldier who feels he could do with a lien, a tort, or maybe a tasty writ of replevin, knows where to go to seek same.

IF THE SOLDIER has a case that requires going to court he is given a civilian lawyer because an officer cannot appear as counsel in anything but a military tribunal. This is quite all right with the officers because we know a lot of barristers who are now in uniform—including Lieut.-Col. William O'Dwyer, who used to be district attorney of a place called Brooklyn—and they all swear they would rather clean out those things than do legal work in the Army.

Generally speaking, this legal advice is free. Realizing that the ability to get free legal advice might be a terrible temptation to a lot of fellows, I called up the War Department.

"Is it true," I asked, "that you provide free legal advice and free lawyers?"

THE BRASS HAT on the other end didn't seem quite prepared for the question. Of course, why I imagined he would be is a question in itself. But, no matter how often it happens in this town, I keep trying.

"Well—yes—in a way," he finally replied. "Sometimes—quite often in fact. Not always. It depends."

"Depends on what?" I demanded—never being one to tolerate shilly-shallying over the telephone.

"On circumstances," he said. "You may put it this way if you wish:

"'A spokesman for the War Department said it depends on circumstances'."

"That is very clear and forthright," I said. "You had better watch out, or all this outspokenness may get you in trouble. You know how Secretary Stimson feels about spilling everything."

"Well," said the brass hat, "there are cases in which we do not provide free lawyers. On the other hand there are cases in which we do, but there are also cases in which we do not and — — —."

"All right," I interrupted. "Let us get concrete. Suppose a soldier, for some reason or other which we will not louse up this debate by going into, wishes a divorce? Does he get a lawyer for nothing?"

To my mind, the brass hat's reply should go thundering down to posterity. Because it was so inspiring I took it down word for word that none of it might be lost. This is what he said:

"If it was a case of maintaining the soldier's morale there would be no fee. But if the divorce was just a luxury — — —."

THE SECOND IN COMMAND among the White House ushers is a gentleman named Wilson Searles. He is a massive six-footer, and habitually carries more dignity than my Aunt Hattie while breaking in a new corset.

The other night Mr. Searles had out-of-town guests at his home. But, along toward midnight, the guests broke the news that they had been unable to find hotel rooms and would be glad to accept the Searles' overnight hospitality.

Having had long training at preserving his composure—after all, he has to smile urbanely every day at some very peculiar characters—Mr. Searles replied that nothing would delight him more. He did it so quietly that not one of the guests heard his teeth gnashing.

HOWEVER, he knew the bedding down capacity of his home and had horrid visions of himself sleeping out in Potomac Park. Furthermore he knew it is not considered appropriate for a head White House usher to flop in the park, even if covered modestly with cherry blossoms.

Incidentally, we are just between cherry blossoms now. The first ones have gone and the second crop isn't due for a week—but I will thank you not to get me sidetracked this way with your bloody horticultural chit-chat.

What I was telling you about was Mr. Searles' dilemma. But, when all seemest darkest, the light of solution dawned. He remembered one place in Washington—maybe the only place for all I know—where he could get a room.

So he went there. He went back to the White House, located a vacant boudoir, and corked off!

All passions, all delights,

IN CAFETERIAS men select more balanced meals than women. So states a student of this matter. This has been previously stated to be the case in many restaurants. There may be cause for alarm in this situation. Most meals married men eat are entirely planned by their wives. This department has repeatedly claimed the reason many men are overweight and suffer many minor ailments is because their wives know nothing regarding diet. At the next meeting of the Husbands' Protective Ass'n I will bring this point up. It may be necessary for the H. P. A. to adopt a resolution that husbands, due to their superior knowledge of what constitutes a balanced diet, plan their own meals.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—You mention "Lena Bryant" as having established a business catering to stylish stouts. Don't you know her name is Lane Bryant? A—This brilliant woman's name was originally Lena Bryant. A slip of the pen in signing an agreement made her write her name "Lane Bryant." She liked Lane better than Lena, so used that name for business purposes! Q—How about letting me have a snapshot of your pup? I hear he is a really handsome animal. Q—As I have had similar requests, I am going to have some snapshots of said pup made in order to comply with same. However, I shall drive a hard bargain. For a snapshot of the pup I shall demand a snapshot of the reader making the request . . . Q—So you claim lawyers do not make good golf players? How about Bobby Jones? He is a lawyer. A—Bobby was a golfer long before he was a lawyer. As soon as he began to think too much about law his golf began to suffer.

WIDOWS, ETC.: Am asked why widows make the best wives. That is, better wives than either those who have married for the first time or divorcees. The reason is simple. Widows understand men better and are more tolerant of male faults than those who have never been married before. As to why the widows also are superior to divorcees as wives, that is also easily understood. Most widows have been happily married and that makes a difference in a second marriage. Divorcees have not been happily married and, as most of them think their husbands were to blame for the failure of the first marriage, they repeat their errors in the second marriage. Such is the opinion of our Horses & Women Department experts.

SAYS SHE: "Gen. Montgomery of the British 8th Army is not Irish as some of your readers are claiming," writes a Boston subscriber. "He comes from the North of Ireland, where people would be resentful if you called them Irish. Most of these people are direct descendants of Scotch settlers and prefer to be known as British. The Irish Free State is definitely not part of the North of Ireland. Both Kitchener and Montgomery came from North of Ireland and therefore are not Irish but British."

HOLLYWOOD, April 18—Now I ask you, who better than Errol Flynn could do "The Adventures of Don Juan" and have five feminine honeys, no less, fighting for his affections all through the movies?

Not only is the picture on tap for Errol at Warners, but John Taintor Foote has turned in the finished screen play. About 12 or 15 years ago John Barrymore made "Don Juan" for Warners and before that it had been one of De Wolf Hopper's stage successes. He also made a movie, but that was when movies were "flickers."

Claudette Colbert

The high romance of the Spanish adventurer and great lover who lived in the 16th century will follow "Objective Burma" for Errol, with Jerry Wald producing. Speaking of Errol, here is a little followup on his recent fisticuffs with Dan Topping: Dan went to Flynn's house to tell him he was sorry and that it had all been a mistake. The boys are still friends.

★ ★ ★

JUST BEFORE Claudette Colbert took the train for Oregon to spend her vacation with Lieut.-Comdr. Joel Pressman, she was given the script of "Tomorrow the World" to read. That is the play Lester Cowan is making, and he says Claudette expressed interest in the character of the school teacher, which has been built up and is more important than it was in the stage play. The German boy, who creates such havoc in the American home until he is put on the right track, is another character that must be selected with care.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: The most excited gentleman I've talked to recently was the man who phoned me yesterday about a call from John Garfield. John had met his son, Sergt. Howard Braham in Italy. "And he called me, a perfect stranger, and told me all the things I had been wanting to hear about my boy," the happy father said. "Mr. Garfield talked just like we were old friends. Actors who go overseas are supposed to boost the morale of the soldiers. But Mr. Garfield is the greatest boost to my morale I have ever had. He must be a fine man."

Star Shine By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, April 18—Linda Darnell relates how she got a spanking while she was making "The Wicked and the Weak." She was playing an important scene. She did it again and again, but still Director Douglas Sirk wasn't satisfied. He went over to her, walked her out of the scene, was talking gently to her, and then he let her have it—a good and quick spanking.

Linda Darnell

She took it standing up. She says that maybe that was what she needed to get into the mood. She returned to the set and did the scene perfectly in a take.

She claims she isn't appreciated at her studio, 20th Century-Fox, where she is under contract. She did "Buffalo Bill" there, and then was loaned out for Rene Clair's "It Happened Tomorrow," and the picture in which she got a spanking.

★ ★ ★

LINDA WAS only a sophomore at high school when Ivan Kahn, the talent scout, discovered her and brought her to Hollywood.

Her real name is Monette Eloyse Darnell. The studio changed it to Linda. She is 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighs 122 pounds, has black hair and flashing brown eyes. She is continually being told that she is beautiful. This doesn't impress her any more.

She was born in Dallas, Tex., on Oct. 16, 1921, on a Tuesday morning at 4 o'clock, on a street in that town called Hollywood.

She doesn't smoke nor drink. She doesn't care much for night clubs, but she likes to dance.

She seldom visits a beauty parlor. She does her own nails, and shampoos her hair herself. She puts her hair up every night before going to bed.

★

SHE DOESN'T care much for an expensive wardrobe. She runs around mostly in slacks. She isn't fond of tailored clothes, but she looks good in them. Her favorite color is purple.

She is married to Peverill Marley, the cameraman. He filmed nearly all of her pictures at 20th Century-Fox.

When she is working in a picture she doesn't go out nights. She is always at home and in bed by 9 o'clock. She does her studying in bed.

She is a movie fan and her favorite actors are Spencer Tracy and Tyrone Power.

HIS HANDS WERE TUCKED into the slanting pockets of his Navy pea-jacket, and the nice-looking kid appeared at first to be no different from scores of other U. He was on a brief "liberty" . . . "I'd like to see the musical instruments department," he said to one of the women at the Citizens' Committee G.H.Q.

STRICTLY SPEAKING, there is no such section at the Mrs. Malcolm Graeme Haughton estate in Commonwealth ave. as "the musical instruments department" . . . There are a few rooms, though, where musical instruments in various states of repair, and some new, are received before being patched up for forwarding to outposts of the U. "I USED TO PLAY the mandolin," the young sailor said . . . Then he took his "hands" out of the pocket of his pea-jacket . . . All that remained of his right hand was the index finger . . . But he began to try to strum a tune.

THAT EARNEST, halting effort was too much for the lady who had guided him . . . She left him alone, and the tears were hers . . . The sailor returned to his base with a mandolin . . . LETTERS ARE COMING in to the Citizens' Committee from beachheads all over the world . . . "Send us a few harmonicas—pleaze!" begs a group of soldiers from the Anzio beachhead, and the censor of that letter must have been sympathetic to the appeal because he permitted identification of the exact part of the front the call came from . . . AND THE SAME ITEMS are repeated . . . Phonographs, electric irons, radios, playing cards, mandolins, guitars, harmonicas, ping pong (or table-tennis) sets . . . Look around the attic or the cellar (—or the livingroom, for that matter—) and see if there aren't some instruments which a bit of repair work will fix up . . . From ships of the Navy come appeals for any kind of radios, and in any kind of condition . . . The boys say they can fix them up . . . But brand new instruments aren't too much to ask for.

THE CITIZENS' COMMITTEE is employing scores of generous Greater Boston women and men who are making a full time job of getting the needed materials to the various fronts . . . The phone number is COM-monwealth 6810, and the address is 13 Commonwealth ave. . . . Record in Salvage Collection Nears

With salvage officials optimistic that waste paper collection records in Boston will be smashed, on the basis of the successful start of this week's drive, city trucks today invaded South Boston and Wards 8, 9 and 10 of Roxbury to pick up paper and scrap tin.

In the city's first five wards, a total of 164,570 pounds of paper were gathered during the first day of the campaign, compared with 145,570 pounds gathered in the same district last month.

Tin collections in the present drive amount to 43,300 pounds, a drop from the 55,500 pounds collected last month. This decrease was anticipated, as tin containers are becoming steadily scarcer.

Drawings were scheduled for today to determine the War Bond winner from among families in Wards 1-5 contributing paper to the drive. All other families in districts still to be canvassed were reminded by Salvage Director George G. Hyland to attach slips, giving their names and addresses, to their paper bundles.

Boston collections will take place tomorrow in Roxbury, Wards 11 and 12 and Dorchester, Wards 13 and 14. On Thursday, collections will be made in Wards 15-18, while Friday pick-ups will be in Wards 19 to 22.

Collections likewise will be made in Belmont tomorrow, Braintree tomorrow and Thursday, Winchester Thursday and Wards 1 and 2 of Quincy Thursday.

HEALTH QUIZ

	YES	NO
Do you have poor digestion?	☐	☐
Do you feel headachy after eating?	☐	☐
Do you get sour or upset easily?	☐	☐
Do you feel tired—listless?	☐	☐

Now everyone knows that to get the good out of the food you eat—you must digest it properly. But what most people don't know is that Nature must produce about two pints of the digestive juice—liver bile—each day to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested, lie sour and heavy within you.

Thus, it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. And, soon you're on the road to feeling better—which is what you're after.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's, taken as directed, aid digestion after Nature's own order. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—only 25c. You'll be glad you did.

Can God Be Reached Through Telepathic Communication?

A strange method of mind and body control, that often leads to immense powers never before experienced, is announced by Rev Edwin J. Dingle, leader of a new movement called "Mystic Christianity." It is said that notable improvement in power of mind, in health, in bodily strength, in abilities and talents, or in magnetic personality, often follow the right use of the method.

The method is a form of telepathy, explains Mr. Dingle, but, instead of enabling people to read the thoughts of men, it aids the mystic in reading the mind of God. Similar methods have been used by the great mystics of all time—from David to Jesus, from Paul to St. Augustine—from St. Bernard to Boehme and the modern mystics. This form of telepathy, he says, is really the source of all inspiration, of all great creative work—success in any worthy endeavor.

The cases of mind reading and ordinary telepathy with which the public is familiar, he says, are accidental and imperfect demonstrations of a gift really designed for a far greater purpose—receiving messages from, or entering into, the mind of God. These demonstrations illustrate, however, a part of the method, in that the mind must be made blank, a receiver of thought instead of a sender, before the telepathic thoughts of God can be recognized. But much additional is required for clear reception.

As a first step in their progress toward the Power of Divine Inspiration, Mr. Dingle wants to send to readers of this notice his momentous 10,000 word Inner Chamber Communication "Mysticism—Lost Key To The Kingdom." It is free. For your free copy send your name and address to the Institute of Mental-Physics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. J-252, Los Angeles 4, Calif.

Concert at League

By BETTY ALDEN

WHEN THE Boston Junior League counts its blessings the membership of Peggy Stuart is acknowledged as one of the luckiest breaks.

Not only a talented pianist she is also a conductor which gives the Hub league the unique distinction of having the only Junior League Orchestra in the country. Conducting 20-odd musicians in symphonic masterpieces is a rare accomplishment for a woman which accounts for the lack of orchestras in other Junior Leagues.

Tonight she is conducting the League orchestra in a concert at Zero Marlboro st. and somehow she has found time to write two new compositions for the program. One is a song to be sung by Lieut. (jg) Mary McClintock of the WAVES, one of a number of musically gifted servicewomen who are guest members of the orchestra this year.

Before the concert, Peggy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willoughby Stuart, Jr., are entertaining at a buffet supper at the League and their guest list fairly bristles with gold braid. Among them are Admiral and Mrs. Robert Theobald, the Ronald Lymans, Royal Navy officers Lieut. Norleigh Booth, Comdr. H. E. Brindley and Lieut.-Comdr. R. F. Naberley; Mrs. Ross Whittier, Peggy and her sister, Elizabeth.

The Frank Sawtells, whose daughter Kay is a violinist, are giving a supper for the Louis B. Hardings, Lieut.-Comdr. and Mrs. M. H. Harris, Beatrice Talbot, Kay and Frances Sawtell.

NOTES FROM A SOCIETY EDITOR'S CUFF: Hats off to Junior Leaguer Mary Frances Falvey who thinks no more of war-working all night than she used to of dancing till dawn at deb parties.

She's been a machinist at the Navy Yard a year and recently went on the midnight to early morn shift.

There's been a positive run on the perambulator market judging by the reports of new arrivals. Lieut. Robert Wesselhoeft, Jr., and his pretty wife, Nancy (Stevens) have been blessed with a wee son, Bob, 3d, at Richardson House and from Gotham comes word that Lieut. and Mrs. Thomas H. P. Whitney are parents of a baby girl, Colette Dumaresq, named for her grandmother, Mrs. C. Handasyde Whitney of Beacon st.

Out in Dedham Lieut. and Mrs. John D. Gannett are shopping for appealing nursery fixin's in anticipation of an addition to their household in early summer.

When Dr. Herbert Davis, president of Smith, comes to Boston Saturday to address the Boston League of Smith College Clubs luncheon at the Copley Plaza his audience will include Mrs. Grafton Wilson, Mrs. Walter Lee, Mrs. Nathaniel Faxon, Miss Maud Hartwell, Mrs. H. S. Parsons, Mrs. Roy E. Bates and other grads.

Snow Covers Great Plains

One of the most severe unseasonal snowstorms in years had spread out unexpectedly over the high great plains area of western Nebraska and Kansas last night, threatening livestock and halting already-late farm operations.

McCook, Neb., had an unprecedented 19 inches of wet, heavy snow with the fall continuing into the night, and at Kearney motor cars stalled in drifts from a 10-inch snowfall.

Henry Busse Orchestra To RKO Boston Thursday

Henry Busse brings his orchestra and his "shuffle rhythm" to the RKO Boston on Thursday, when "Gung Ho," the spectacular film of the Makin Island raid will begin a week's run as the companion screen attraction.

In addition to the original effect Busse achieves by a slight anticipation of each beat of music, the orchestra leader has also discovered many unusual tone variations on the trumpet, as his own theme song, "Hot Lips," proves.

Ray Eberle

Appearing with the Busse orchestra are Betty Brownell, featured vocalist, Georgie Kaye, De Val, Merle and Lee and Ray Eberle, romantic singing star formerly associated with Glenn Miller's band.

"Gung Ho," which depicts this country's first offensive action against Japan by Carlson's raiders, stars Randolph Scott, Alan Curtis and Grace McDonald. Scott plays Col. Thornwald, Carlson's film prototype. Sam Levene, Noah Beery, Jr., and J. Carrol Naish are cast as members of the ruthless guerilla band that mangled the Jap garrison.

'Dream With Music' Tops In Season of Lavish Hits

By PEGGY DOYLE

"Dream With Music," the lavish new musical with Vera Zorina, Ronald Graham and June Knight which Richard Kollmar brought to the Shubert last night for a pre-Broadway tryout, is a shot of stardust in the eyes.

Fantastically beautiful, it easily rates the top superlatives for its eye appeal in a season notable for flagrantly ostentatious musical productions. And for months of opening-nights we'll be talking about the first-act curtain, that enchanting ballet in the clouds number.

Vera Zorina

Another standout is the droll Lion and the Lamb number, which opens the second act and takes you and Zorina to a party given by Mr. and Mrs. Lion and attended by a jungleful of weird and wonderful animals with pelts by Karinska.

Dorothy Kilgallen, Boston American columnist whose "beat" is Broadway, dreamed up this Arabian Nights fantasy with soap-opera touches on her Underwood in collaboration with Sidney Sheldon and Ben Roberts. The book is imaginative, colorful and even includes a Magic Carpet that worked without a hitch on opening night. What it needs and doubtless will have in abundance by the time it hits Manhattan and potential box-office highs is comedy, which has been scarcer than beefsteak as musicals go this semester.

Vera Zorina, the dream-girl of ballet, stage and screen, is the perfect Scheherazade, looking too beautiful in inciuctably lovely costumes by Karinska and headdresses by Lily Dache. Ronald Graham's Aladdin is a debonair and handsome lad who before he started going places on Magic Carpets was an irresponsible, intrepid newspaperman who got pandas through the customs.

Leonard Elliott's Tweedledee-touched make-believing as Sinbad, the genius of doubling turns was one of the evening's most skilled performances. By contrast, Dave Ballard's Genie and Alex Rotov's Wazir cry out for development of their comic possibilities.

Prettier if not funnier are the girls in the show, especially in those peekaboo crocheted tights that had the male customers gawking like country bumpkins at their first sight of the Empire State Building. Gasps, as a matter of record, were the order of the evening, an audible crescendo of them greeting every new scene in tribute to Miles White's glamor-making costumes and Stewart Chaney's arrestingly stunning sets. When handsomer costumes and sets are made, the Messrs. White and Chaney will run them up, never doubt it.

* * *

Outside of a girl tripping on her hoopskirt and being trundled off-stage via a revolving stage and a slow first-curtain, this stupendous show, which took a week to hang and is mechanically involved, opened with surprisingly few slipups.

Its unusual and listenable score, as you probably know, is based on themes from Wagner, Beethoven, Schubert, Grieg and Rimsky-Korsakoff, Chopin, Dvorak, Schumann and Gluck selections. Edward Eager's lyrics deserved more clearly enunciated delivery than they were given last night.

All in all, it looks like the talented, young Kollmars have a potential hit on their hands, their eye-filling "Dream With Music" requiring but generous dashes of comedy, a free hand with the blue-pencil (it ran until some minutes before 12 opening-night) and a general letdown of tightness that hampered nearly all the performers last night.

THE BATTLE OF RUSSIA

POPULAR SCIENCE - TRAVELOGUE

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Monday — Yesterday, Miss Thompson and I came up to Hyde Park. Mr. Charles Keene Taylor is our guest here. This morning we are visiting the Franklin D. Roosevelt High School, and I shall spend a good part of the morning listening to school problems and hearing Mr. Taylor discuss and, I hope, demonstrate his ideas on vocational guidance.

Signs of spring here in the country are not as evident as they are in Washington, but, nevertheless, every time I have a glimpse of my own home surroundings I am conscious of a great longing to stay and watch the gradual unfolding of spring. It is so many years since I have seen the lilac bushes bud and the lilies of the valley push up through the ground.

IN WASHINGTON, SPRING suddenly seems to burst upon you. Here it creeps, but it is nevertheless a miracle of beauty and hope. With so much death and destruction going on throughout the world, the fact that the seasons follow their course, that there is rebirth when the time comes, must bring comfort to many sad souls in the world.

Dean Eleanor Grady of Hunter College came to see me in Washington on Saturday to talk about what the college could do for the returning girls as they are discharged from the military services. I am sure the college will do its part, for one always finds Hunter thinking ahead on the problems of the day where girls are concerned.

Just now I have before me the notice of a conference to be held in the Hunter College auditorium on April 19 on "Religion at Work in the Community." Some 2000 leaders, educators and laymen will hear specific programs discussed, and I am sure that this coming together of the various religious leaders with the laymen is a valuable and necessary step.

Make-up the Magic Way

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

THE MAGICIAN says presto chango . . . and how right he would be if he were singing the praises of a new make-up magic . . . for magic is the word to describe the quick-change beauty affected by this cosmetic.

It is a definitely non-drying, liquid cake make-up . . . that is the most amazing facial foundation we've tried. A brand new ingredient . . . secret formula . . . is the reason. The chemist for the traditionally fine house sponsoring this new facial quick change . . . says it is the first time it's ever been used for this type of product.

Just the tiniest bit whisked across the skin . . . and quick as a wink . . . pale skins become vibrant with youthful color. And, if your skin is too dark . . . and you crave a lighter tone . . . it is yours for the asking and doing.

CREAMY LIQUID IN FIVE SHADES

Delightful to use . . . it is a creamy liquid . . . comes in five heaven-inspired shades . . . with the nicest fragrance to smooth on easily with the fingertips . . . leaving the skin dewy-soft . . . fresh as a flower . . . and dynamically youthful. I'm all for this beauty aid . . . as you will be when you discover the magic of its application . . . and the alive quality which it injects into your complexion.

If you have a very fair skin . . . there is rose rachel for a delicate, cameo blending of natural and rachel tones. Mauve rose . . . for medium skins . . . adds a pretty glow to complexions . . . while peche will give a golden, sun-washed shade to accent the warm color tones of your skin. But, if you prefer a deep and rosey-hued darker skin . . . as I do . . . rose beige will do the trick for you . . . and how! The Brazilian shade renders a deep coppery tint with a Latin look . . . to blend with your own . . . or for a pseudo suntan.

This liquid cake make-up is more than a cosmetic . . . it is a wonderful, non-drying new complexion for your face . . . achieved instantly with simple application. It is definitely non-drying . . . because of its special oils . . . and you can have it in the most flattering shades for a skin-silky smoothness . . . gloriously fresh.

For the name of this secret formula quick-change make-up, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, except the week-end, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THE MAGICIAN SAYS presto change . . . but there is a quick change for make-up magic . . . in a non-drying liquid "cake" makeup that has a brand new ingredient (secret formula) which transforms pale skins into color vibrancy as the tiniest bit is whisked across the face . . . a satisfying, unmarked complexion every girl dreams about.

Army Addresses To Next of Kin

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: Will you please tell me to what agency I should write to find out the present address of a soldier in the Army? I have his serial number.

S. F.

The Army gives this information only to the next of kin, named by the soldier. Do you know his family's address so that you can get his address from them, or perhaps from a friends of his? If you will write him using the last address you have, your letter will be forwarded to him.

Fashion

RIGHTLY NAMED "LOVELY LADY" . . . because it will make any lady lovlier . . . is this easy-to-wear Dobbs version of spring's fashion first . . . the beret. The dashing sweep to the side is accented with a contrasting tassel . . . to give distinction to your head.—R. M.

In-Law Trouble

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX—I went with my husband three years before we were married, and he always treated we wonderfully. We've been married three years, and our baby is 2. I am 25, and he is 26.

As long as we lived a distance from his people he treated me as any man in love should treat his wife. But he persuaded me to move nearer to his folks, and now he lets them dictate what he should do. They tell him I should stay at home every night, while he goes out.

Once in a while I'll get ready to go to a show, and will wait for the appearance of someone he says he got to come and stay with the baby, but that person never comes, so I stay at home after all.

He handles all money matters, and as his people own a grocery store I don't even know what the grocery bill is and whether it's ever paid. Shall I continue living with this man, or divorce him? M. M.

That's a pretty serious question you've put up to me—shall you continue living with your husband or divorce him? You've been married only three years, and you have a baby of 2. Don't you think your home is worth saving, and that the baby should have a father's care as well as a mother's? Why not talk things out with your husband as you have with me and tell him you are unwilling to continue your married life this way; that after all you didn't marry your in-laws. Sometimes young husbands drift back to their families in the way you describe, and a wifely nudge or two will set them straight.

Now the Collapsible Hat

By BETTINA BEDWELL

WHAT to do with hats when you have to pack them is a problem that has been a trouble to solve ever since hats were invented. Lilly Dache, who is a most inventive milliner, thinks she has found the answer in her new collapsible hats, made to fold as flat as an envelope without in any way spoiling their shape.

She even has brimmed hats that fold up this way, but the real knock-out among her collapsibles is the Scotch cap that Miss Dulin has sketched. This hat can be folded and tucked into a coat pocket, or packed in practically no space at all.

The model is made of navy blue grosgrain, and has a band around the lower edge of white pique. For some gay color, a bow of nasturtium orange ribbon is tied into the back of the cap.

Molasses Goodies

By MARTHA LEE

APRIL is a good month in which to start planning the summer and fall canning campaign, a good time to anticipate the equipment that will be needed to take care of the victory garden surplus. Pressure cookers will be available; that is, according to the latest reports.

April isn't any too early either to start figuring your sugar needs and to plan to use less sugar on desserts from now on so that a stockpile will build up toward the jelly and jam making.

Molasses, which is unrationed, is an excellent sweetening for desserts—but, more important, it has a health benefit that no other sweet can provide. So start making desserts such as these:

APPLE COTTAGE PUDDING

2 tbsp. butter or margarine
2 apples
6 tbsp. molasses

Melt butter and put 1 teaspoon in each of 6 custard cups. Pare, core and chop apples and divide evenly in the cups, and add a tablespoon of molasses to each. Cover with the following batter:

1-3 cup shortening
2-3 cup sugar
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup sifted flour
1½ tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt ½ cup milk
½ tsp. vanilla extract

Cream shortening, add sugar and beat until light. Add egg and flavoring. Mix and sift dry ingredients and add alternately with the milk, mixing until smooth after each addition. Place over apple mixture, filling cups ⅔ full. Bake at 350 deg. F. about 30 minutes. Invert on serving dish and serve plain or with whipped evaporated milk.

GINGERBREAD

½ cup melted shortening
1½ cups molasses
1 egg, beaten 1 tsp. cinnamon
2½ cups sifted flour
1½ tsp. soda ½ tsp. cloves
1 tsp. ginger ½ tsp. salt
¾ cup hot water

Combine shortening and molasses and add egg. Stir until well blended. Mix and sift dry ingredients and add alternately with the hot water. Bake in a well-greased 9x9x2 inch pan in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 45 minutes. Makes 16 servings.

APPLE COTTAGE PUDDING

SOUTHERN SWEET POTATO PIE

1½ cups cooked or canned sweet potatoes
1-3 cup brown sugar
3 tbsp. molasses
½ tsp. salt 1 tsp. cinnamon
3 egg yolks, well beaten
¾ cup milk 3 egg whites
2 tbsp. melted butter
½ cup chopped walnuts

Bake one large pastry shell in hot oven (425 deg. F.) about 10 minutes. Mash sweet potatoes until free of lumps. Add sugar, molasses, salt, cinnamon and beaten egg yolks. Add milk, butter and walnuts. Mix well. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for one hour or until firm.

McCarthy and Cronin Trying to Get Winners

By JACK CONWAY

RED SOX against the Yanks at Fenway Park this afternoon!

While the 1944 lineups of these once great teams lack their old lustre, it is still baseball, and thousands of fans will read every detail of the game if they are unable to witness it. Many of the names will be unfamiliar to them, but there will still be enough of the old heroes on the job to make them feel at home.

Joe McCarthy, magic man of baseball, and Joe Cronin, as courageous a ball player and pilot as ever lived, will display the same determination and managerial ability that enabled them to stand head and shoulders over most of their rivals. Perhaps they will not get as good a result as when they had players like Joe DiMaggio, Ted Williams, Dom DiMaggio and the other greats but they hope to furnish intense competition and the best possible brand of baseball under the circumstances.

Joe McCarthy

If it had not been for the war, the Sox would have had one of the most powerful clubs in baseball today. Tom Yawkey's farm system was beginning to bring results.

In his early days with the Sox, Yawkey tried to purchase a pennant. He bought Jimmy Foxx, Lefty Grove, Joe Cronin and other top-priced players.

During that period, Cronin was unable to develop pitchers. Just when the Sox began to have good fortune with their hurlers, veterans like Grove and Foxx cracked up.

Yawkey also found it was better policy to follow the system of the Yanks in bringing up young players from farm clubs. There was a wealth of promising players in the Sox incubators when the war changed the entire baseball picture.

The Sox also had in Ted Williams and Dom DiMaggio two of the most brilliant young players in the game.

The Yanks had retained most of their power, but they were slipping just a bit when the war came. The Sox were in a position to have moved ahead of the champions if the demands of the military service had not changed everything.

Hughson and Peacock

THE TEMPORARY return of Tex Hughson, crack pitcher, and Catcher Johnny Peacock will aid the Sox a great deal. Hughson and Peacock have been accepted for the armed forces, but their departure for camps has been held up due to the fact they are over 26 years of age. It is possible they will not be called for service until June.

Hughson is one of the greatest pitchers in baseball, and he is certain to win a number of games for the Sox. Peacock will give Joe Cronin's club some of the needed strength it needs behind the bat.

Good weather will do much to improve the playing of the Sox and Yanks. The players are badly in need of batting and fielding practice.

* * *

Will Carry On

BASEBALL HAS been given hope by the new draft delays, and by the wish of President Roosevelt that it continue. It is possible manpower legislation will not be passed which would strip baseball of its 4-F players. This group composes 80 per cent of the players in the big leagues, and without these men it would be almost impossible for the game to carry on.

I do not believe the public will turn out to see 'teen old players and graybeards.

For today, at least, baseball feels it has something to offer the public. Men like Joe McCarthy and Joe Cronin may be expected to do their utmost to see that their players deliver the best brand of baseball possible.

Sox, Yankees Tangle In Curtain Raiser

By FRED C. LANE

Looking more like their Newark farm hands than champions of the baseball universe, the New York Yankees were in town today to open the 1944 baseball campaign with the Red Sox. Starting time: 3 p. m. Locale: Fenway Park.

Gone from the Yank rolls since they tanned the Cards in the '42 World Series are mainstays Charlie Keller, Bill Dickey, Bill Johnson and Joe Gordon. In their stead are disporting Newark alumni Snuffy Stirweiss, Bud Betheny, Ed Levy, Don Savage and Mike Garbark, and they don't measure up.

In fact, of the Yankees who won the A. L. gonfalon in 1942, not a regular remains, Buddy Hassett, DiMaggio, Phil Rizzuto, Tommy Henrich and Red Rolfe having been absent all last season.

Yet such is the respect in which Manager Joe McCarthy is held by baseball writers that they have not hesitated in picking the Yanks to win the pennant again—one instance where the old axiom, "Ball players make the manager," doesn't apply.

SOX STRONGER

They may have something at that because since the poll was taken, the Yanks' outlook has orightened with the return of Pitchers Spud Chandler and Tiny Bonham, who between them won 35 games last year. Both were expected to be caught in the draft by this time.

The Red Sox on the other hand actually look stronger than in '43 when they finished seventh. Mace Brown and Joe Dobson will be missed from the pitching staff but Outfielder Bob Johnson has been acquired from Washington, and he might provide the thump that will send them onward and upwards.

Any team that has three RBI masters like Johnson, Doerr and Tabor should not be counted out of the race in such a sub-par year as this. The Yanks, on paper, have nothing to match it. And when Cronin takes over at first base, the Sox will have more power than any other club in the league.

Atop this, Tex Hughson, 22-game winner in '42, will be back soon to bolster a pitching staff that already looks respectable. Yes, the Sox seem well set for the campaign. Any club that can keep men like Eddie Lake and Pete Fox on the bench should have little to worry about.

Gov. Leverett Saltonstall will southpaw the first pitch of the season this afternoon and the customary military spectacle will be unveiled with WACs, WAVES and SPARS drawing the applause.

Today's pitching selections were Hank Borowy for the champions, rookie Emmett O'Neil or veteran Yank Terry for the Sox.

Lose Pilots

NEW YORK, April 18 (INS)—Both New York baseball teams faced loss of their managers on the eve of the 1944 season-opening.

In the case of the Yankees, Joe McCarthy's loss is only temporary. McCarthy was reported ill with the grippe and will not journey to Boston for the Yankee-Red Sox clash.

The plight of the Giants is more serious. Pilot Mel Ott was instructed to report next Monday to Lakewood, N. J., for his pre-induction exam.

Tribe, Giants in N. Y. Tilt

By BILL GRIMES

NEW YORK, April 18—For the opening game of the third wartime season against the Giants this afternoon at the Polo Grounds, Manager Bob Colemand made some drastic changes in his Braves' lineup.

Out of a clear sky, Coleman announced last night that he would play Roland Gladu, the little French-Canadian, who has been so potent with the bat, at third base and that he had assigned Tommy Holmes to the center field berth flanked by "Butch" Nieman in left and "Chuck" Workman in right field.

That Coleman went back to the 1943 outfield alignment wasn't surprising. But, the benching of Connie Ryan for Roland Gladu, who has not been on the infield this spring, was startling news.

Coleman is sold on Gladu as a hitter. With three such hitters in the outfield as "Chuck" Workman, "Butch" Nieman and Tommy Holmes, Coleman couldn't find a spot for the Frenchman other than on the infield.

Roland Gladu has never played in a higher classification than a "D" league, the Canadian-American. During the spring training he played right field and did a good job, despite the fact that he isn't a gazelle hounding balls.

Gladu is a gamester and we doubt if he'll get "buck fever" playing against the Giants, a club he has read about for years but has never seen in action.

Al Javery drew the starting assignment. He hurled the opener against the Giants a year ago, but was forced to retire in favor of "Red" Barrett, after he had been nicked by a line drive off Sid Gordon's bat, and was charged with the defeat.

Manager Mel Ott announced that he would open up with Bill Voiselle, a six-four, two-hundred-pound right-hand "rookie," up from Jersey City.

New Bedford Bout

New Bedford fistic fans will be out in droves tonight when Pat Demers, Brockton, faces Jerry Zullo, Chelsea, in a return bout over the 10-round distance at the Bristol Arena. This pair fought at the same club a month ago and Demers was declared the winner by a split verdict.

Turning Some Old Pages From Marathon Album

By AUSTEN LAKE

Tomorrow's B. A. A. Marathon is a Boston tradition like Mother Goose's grave, Dr. Walter Kendall's Wheel About the Hub, Louisburg Square and race horse psychosis. It is the biggest, freest and goofiest sport spectacle on earth and witnessed for 40-odd years by millions of spectators who line the way between Lucky Rock Manor and Exeter st. to examine the agonies of the athletes and listen to the hilarious honk of official motor cars. Those who have followed this curious cavalcade over the years have their memories. For example:

1916—Arthur Roth (St. Alphonsus A. C.) and Willie Kyronen (Melrose A. C.) running into Lake st. like a pair of matched bays, with Mel Shepherd, Kyronen's coach, holding his man in check from the cozy cushions of a motor car while Roth wormed away in the downhill stretch of Beacon st. And Kyronen spending his stored up energies in a belated spurt that resembled a quarter-miler, finishing with plenty of puff and losing by a scant few seconds.

1917—Bill Kennedy, the Chicago artisan arriving two weeks before the race on east-bound freight couplings and sleeping on a pool table. Kennedy staked by a newsman to $10 eating money and getting a job laying brick to earn his lodging. Kennedy training after work hours by galloping over the countryside by the light of the moon. And Kennedy winning the B. A. A. convulsion by good half a mile.

1920—Arthur Roth sneering "so long Jimmy" as he passed Henigan at Boston College and drew slowly away. And behind Roth and Henigan the dark skinned figure of a bony workman, Peter Trivoulides, gaining doggedly and finally passing the faltering sneerer at the Harvard Club to go on and win the laurel wreath, a mantle piece ornament and a platter of ice cream. Trivoulides, the restaurant bus boy, who won fleeting fame and then faded back into the limbo of forgotten men.

DeMar's Golden Years

1911, '22, '23, '24, '27, '28, '30—Gaunt Clarence DeMar and his snowshoe lope, running with the mechanical precision of a sewing machine, the monotonous perfection of his pace making the long grind seem like a before-breakfast-appetiser.

1925—Chuck Mellor, heavy mittons on his hands and thicknesses of newspaper stuffed under his shirt to keep out the bleak April wind and the gusts of snow. Mellor filling his cheeks with eatin tobacco until the sides of his face looked like ulcerated teeth. Mellor shuffling along gazing curiously at the crowd, a tourist spectator of his own triumph and finishing with fresh indifference.

1926—Albin Stenroos, the 1924 Finnish Olympic champion and general favorite, running shoulder to shoulder with Johnny Miles. And Miles pulling away from the stomach-sick Finn on the Newton hills to create a new course record and asking, "Who was that guy?" meaning Stenroos.

1928—The puckish, lion-hearted Joie Ray running his first marathon in the hope of making the Olympic team and slogging along with his shoes damp with blood and his heels twin, red smears. So that, after finishing third, his slippers were cut from his feet, lifting lengths of skin and flesh. Ray, on crutches, threatened with septic poisoning and happy to pay the price of his Olympic passage.

Biggest Free Show

1932—Johnny McLeod leading the pack at Coolidge Corner by so long a margin that the following runners were not yet in sight. And Johnny, after breaking all records to this point, growing pale with abdomen cramps so that his face was suddenly ashen, his eyes bloodshot and his lips slack and drooling. The rest of the herd going by while Johnny reeled and retched at the curbstone, recovering in time to finish 27th. And Paul DeBruyn, the thickset Teuton with a build like a wrestler, being crowned the champion while Johnny was carted off in a delerium.

1934—Dave Komonen, the Finnish mine carpenter, and Johnny Kelly, the slender Arlington florist, matching stride for stride like Siamese twins. Komonen handing Johnny cups of water that came from the first aid auto and letting the slim lad drink first. Johnny sharing his lemon halves, handed from the sidelines by his four brothers along the route. And finally Dave giving a farewell, friendly grin over his shoulder as he turned into Beacon st., and began the final spurt that Johnny could not answer.

1935—Kelly, remembering his last experience, setting down to shadow the blocky Komoneu as the man to watch. Komonen being trailed by a swarm of Hopefuls—Pawson, DeBruyn, Lermond and Melm. The Finn suffering gas bubbles and Johnny moving off after a high-numbered unknown with 175 on his back while Komonen slowed to a trot, a walk and surrender. Kelly, fighting the mists in his brain before Pat Dengis could close the quarter mile gap and going on to win with a last leaden lope.

1936—Tarzan Brown, the Rhode Island Indian, leading by a rifle shot on lower Beacon street and suddenly going spraddle-legged like a new-born calf. Tarzan standing paralytic with glazed eyeballs peering back along the road while the crowd implored him to regain consciousness. Tarzan picking up his shuffle by sheer memory of motion and staggering in a victor.

1943—Gerard Cote, the chunky Canadian sergeant, suffering from a self confessed complication of "ailments" waddling along with the precision of an aero motor to be hailed as the race's greatest "perfectionist" since DeMar.

1944—The 77 runners, smallest field since 1923, but with seven of the first eight finishers of last year, clattering through sports' oddest event to create a new chapter in the biggest, freest and goofiest sport spectacle and make new history in the poor man's pleasure, another B. A. A. marathon.

Men to Watch in 48th Marathon

By HUCK FINNEGAN

The 48th running of the Boston A. A. Marathon comes up at noon tomorrow, and the man who has started and finished 25 of them — Clarence Harrison De Mar — will be among the missing for the first time since 1922. The grand old foot-racer will be missed by thousands of well-wishers along the Hopkinton-Boston route, but such a talented field has answered Tom Kanaly's call that spectators will have plenty to enthuse over. Figuring in the news should be:

1—TARZAN BROWN. The Narragansett Indian won the grind in '36 and '39, but hasn't been among the first 10 in the past four years. Nobody knows whether he's been training but there is a suspicion he's primed. When nothing is expected of him, as in '29, he usually runs his best. He might be ready for a second smashing comeback.

2—CLAYTON FARRAR, LLOYD BAIRSTOW. These young Coast Guardsmen will be the cynosure of all eyes. Farrar made a sweep of the North Medford 20-mile marathon and the Reddish and Cathedral 10-milers. He was way back last year but on the hilly Yonkers course he finished third to Cote and McGlone. Cote for one figures he'll be dangerous. Bairstow was ninth in '42, a bang-up fourth last year. This year he's been troubled with arthritis. If the day is hot he might figure.

3—TED VOGEL, NORMAN BRIGHT, CHARLIE ROBBINS, DON OSBORNE. The marathon bug has bitten the collegian. Vogel, only 18, was a road racer before B. C.'s Jack Ryder made him a two-miler. As a B. A. A. member last June, he won the national junior 10,000 meter championship.

Like Vogel, Bright is a former national champion—5000 meters—and is making his marathon debut. Robbins was a star harrier at Connecticut State, developed into a good 15-miler before entering the Navy. Osborne is a class-mate of Gil Dodds at Gordon College, won the "Y" handicap 1000, placed second in the Malden mile, eighth in the Cathedral 10-mile.

4—FRED McGLONE. The "man to beat" in the race, the Roxbury brakeman will be handicapped by occupying the favorite's role. His main competition is expected from established headliners like Cote, two-time winner; Johnny Kelley, 1935 winner and five times runner-up; Don Heinicke, Lloyd Evans, Willie Wicklund, Tony Madeiros, Mike O'Hara, Bill Steiner and Louis Young.

A field of 77 is entered, a remarkable showing for a war year. The B. A. A. is to be congratulated not only for keeping the classic going through hard times, but in rounding up such a stellar field.

Medford Nine Tests Arlington

By MIKE GILLOOLY

A pair of league champions—both with promise of successfully defending their titles this season—will be highlighting the holiday schoolboy baseball program tomorrow when Medford of the Greater Boston loop meets the king of the suburban circuit, Arlington, at Warren Pierce Stadium, Arlington.

It'll be the first start of the season for Coach Art Tirrell's Mustangs and the third go for Arlington under the combined coaching efforts of Fred Ostergren and Gus Gardella.

In launching its defense of its championship last week, Arlington was forced to split honors, losing to a clever Newton nine while taking Watertown into camp. But now that the team's newcomers have had a taste of competition, the Ostergren aggregation figures to be a lot tougher the rest of the way. Veteran Dave Sheehan, six-foot right-hander, will probably get the starting assignment on the mound, pitching to Shad Burnes, a good left-handed sticker.

STRENGTH IN MIDDLE

Coach Tirrell will send either Joe Puccio or Dana MacNeil to the hill for Medford. The Greater Boston leaguers will be sporting strength "down the middle" with veterans John Corbisiero catching, Joe Gianelli at short and George Morehouse in center field—all well remembered for their feats on the gridiron last fall.

★ ★ ★

The annual Patriot's Day carnival at Concord has whittled down to a quadrangular affair with Concord, Belmont, Winchester and Lexington making up the field . . . defending champion, Lynn English, will not be in the running . . . in the afternoon, Concord will send the Middlesex League off to a flying start against rival Lexington.

Coach Clem McCann's plans to keep his boys active will be very much in evidence this week and next . . . his B. C. High nine will meet Mission in a practice tilt tomorrow morning and then play an informal game with Somerville Thursday . . . and the Eaglets have two regular Boston school games already slated.

LYNCH SPARKS SOUTHIE

South Boston High's practice sessions have been livened up by Phil Lynch, trying out for shortstop at the Stadium . . . Lynch had experience in the Park League last year and he'll probably be starting for City Pointers . . . Art Collins, crack 300-yarder at Boston Latin, may shift from the outfield to the mound this season.

Other holiday games find Lynn Classical at Exeter; Marblehead at Lawrence; Middlesex at St. Mark's; Thayer at Milton Academy; Methuen at Newburyport; LaSalle at Moses Brown; Hudson at Marlboro.

Braintree High will bear watching this spring on the diamond . . . Coach Harold Hawkes will have half a dozen veterans back, topped by a pair of pitchers, Sam Scott and Bob Lang . . . Jack Larson will again be handling the slants of the moundsmen.

Mexican Champion Waiting on Jack

MEXICO CITY, April 18 (AP)—Felix Vera, Mexican manager of Juan Zurita, NBA lightweight boxing champion, said today that Zurita has received offers to fight in San Antonio, Tex., April 27, and in Houston, April 29.

However, pending a definite decision as to whether Beau Jack will agree to meet Zurita in Mexico City, Vera said the two offers have not been accepted.

Roller Vanities Dazzling Show

What a difference two years has made!

Just breaking into big time here in 1942 the Skating Vanities made its major debut in Boston—last night the '44 edition of the Vanities was unfolded and it was far and away the greatest sports spectacle ever seen at the Garden.

Not only was it star studded from the opening Scotch noveity number to the patriotic "Here Comes the Navy" finale but the production numbers, the music and the costumes topped anything ever seen in a Broadway production.

Many of the headliners were known to the crowd of almost 10,000 which turned out for the opener. Lou Testa, a Providence boy and former world's professional champion, came very close to stealing the show as he always does with his hair raising stunts which forced many of the spectators to move back a few rows.

But the top bows naturally went to lovely Gloria Nord who is all the show press agents claimed and even more. She not only brings youth and charm into the Garden but her ballet routines on wheels are as nearly perfect as any human can make them.

The old favorites who were well received and rightfully so were Dolly Durkin and Frank Foster in their tango duo; Bobby Johnson and Rose Piccola in their Russian specialty; Hugh Thomas and La-Veda Simmons in their whirlwind spins; Shirley Barnhart whose acrobatic skating and baton twirling rates close to the impossible on wheels, and Otto Eason who is really a "Bojangles" on skates.

And there's a flock of new talent in this 1944 review including Ann Maion, former world's singles champion and the world's greatest freestyle skater; Bobby Ryan, former national singles champion; Ken Davidson, world's badminton titleholder; Nirska, whose original butterfly dance just about defies description; the Mills Brothers—need any more be said—and a flock of other greats.

It's a must show for all .

There will be performances nightly through Sunday and three matinees. The final matinee Sunday afternoon will be the American-Record-Advertiser fund for hospitalized war veterans in this area. Thanks to Harold Steinman, the producer, and the Boston Garden, every penny turned in at the box office will be given to this most worthy cause.

Not only will the fans see a grand show but each individual will know that the price he or she paid for a ticket will go toward making some wounded kid who wants to be remembered, a gift to let him know that we haven't forgotten him.

Clayburne of Roxbury To Wrestle Russell

Jack Clayburne, Colored champion from Roxbury, has been signed to meet Rebel Bob Russell, Newport, R. I., in the main bout of Promoter Paul Bowser's weekly wrestling show at the Arena tomorrow night.

Three matches on the supporting card will complete the program. In the semi-final, Marvin Westenberg will square off against John Katan while in the weekly special Ed "Strangler" White will tangle with Dr. John "Drop-Kick" Murphy. The opener will pit Oscar Swanson against Tiger Tasker.

Jeff Heath Signs

CLEVELAND, April 18 (INS)—Jeff Heath, star outfielder of the Cleveland Indians, headed for Chicago to join his team mates for the opening game tomorrow after reaching an agreement with the club on his 1944 contract.

A Scratching Dog Is in Torment

Thousands of dog owners have found that good way to keep their pets from constant scratching, biting, rubbing and digging. Once a week give them a dose of Red Mustang Flea Powders. These powders usually help to bring prompt ease from an intense itching irritation that has centered in the nerve endings of the dog's skin. The urge to scratch abates—the dog is happier, more contented. No wonder a purchaser writes: "Red Mustang Dog Powders have given my dog great relief. Many thanks from 'Chink' and self." Why not try them on your own scratching dog. 25c at any good drug store, pet or sport shop.

Mad Russian On Sidelines

CHICAGO, April 18 (AP)—Lou Novikoff, blustering Chicago Cubs' outfielder, was a bit on the dejected side today. His teammates were in Cincinnati for their league opener with the Reds, but the "Mad Russian" was in Chicago receiving treatment for a pulled leg muscle suffered Sunday in his first Cub workout of the season.

He missed spring training due to his wife's illness, staying California. Last year he was a holdout until several weeks of the National League season had elapsed.
